DESCRIPTION

Zurich's most prestigious residential building, the Palais Kraft, was designed by architect Christoph Schweinfurth, and built 1994-1997. The Palais Kraft contains luxurious guest rooms, suites, family apartments, penthouses and offices, most with high ceilings and functional fireplaces.

The relaxed, classical style was an immediate success with the working rich. First to move in was Hans Wilhelm Gäb, then Aufsichtsratsvorsitzender of Adam Opel and Vice President of GM Europe. Current and former guests include fashion designers, entrepreneurs, Fortune 500 managers, bankers, professionals, real estate tycoons, film directors and producers, artists, writers, musicians, philanthropists and aristocrats, hailing from all around the world. We welcome diversity!
